A Few Words About Walter Clark's Reinstatement As Broward Sheriff

Walter R. Clark, who was removed as sheriff of Broward county July 23, 1942, has been reinstated by the state senate. In an executive session during the week in Tallahassee members of the senate refused to sustain the actions of Governor Holland in removing Sheriff Clark.

Governor Holland removed Sheriff Clark on charges that he permitted gamblers and bookmakers to operate in Broward county. Before the senate appeared R. G. Dunner, FBI agent, who said that while gambling was going on in Broward county it likewise was going on in Dade county and to a lesser extent along the entire Florida East Coast.

Despite the fact that I supported the removal of Clark for his part against the Gentlemen from Puka county, on last July 23, my enthusiasm for the Holland regime cooled. I just couldn't put two and two together and make sense out of the removal.

The senate during this session of the legislature has sustained several removals of the governor—and, I'm of the opinion that refusal in the Clark case was a shock to the occupant of the Mansion on Adams street in Tallahassee.

Negro Is Held In Cutting Scrape

At an inquest into the death of McKinley Wells, negro resident of the Canal Point FBA camp conducted at the city hall Wednesday night by Peace Justice W. J. Larrimore, a coroner jury arrived at a verdict that Wells died of knife wounds inflicted by Isaac Arledge, also a negro resident of the camp, in self defense.

The stabbing occurred on midnight, May 27, while John D. Cobb, Jr., camp manager, and Arledge were taking Wells to the city hall, according to testimony submitted at the hearing. On the way, Wells attempted to wrest control of the car from Mr. Cobb and in the struggle that followed Wells was cut by Arledge who was carrying the knife away. The camp manager testified that he was unaware of the knife wounds until Wells was placed under the lights of the jail where he died a few minutes after arrival. E. L. Pope Speaks To Rotarians

E. L. Pope, for many years a representative of the Atlantic Commission company until 1939 when he resigned to enter the farming and brokerage business in Pahokee, was speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Pahokee Rotary club. Pope is the newest member of the club.

In his talk Mr. Pope traced the Florida produce business through its formative stages in the era of water transportation to the present day fast rail and truck transportation. He interspersed his talk with many interesting incidents among well known produce men of the country.

During the past year—since gas and tires became scarce—the club has made it a point to have programs put on by members of the club. The one yesterday was as interesting as any this year and proved again that local programs can be as entertaining and educational as those furnished by out of town talent.

Recapitulation of Shipments During 1942-43 Season Show It To Be Most Profitable In History Prices Were Far Above Any In Past Years—Growers With Something To Sell Made Money Every Month— Celery and Cabbage Were Outstanding Cash Makers—Beans Were Profitable During Most Every Month Of The Crop Season.

The volume of vegetables shipped from the Lake Okeechobee area of Palm Beach County during the 1942-43 farming season probably the largest on record totaled approximately 13,000 cars and proceeds up to June 1. To northern markets went 8,871 carrots by rail and 1,663 carrot equivalents by truck. Canners received an additional 200 truck loads were purchased by canners.

In comparison, shipments to southern markets through the previous season totaled 6,133 cars by rail and 2,808 by truck. Beans, mostly snaps but including a few cars of lima, accounted for over half the season's total with 3,737 carlots going to northern markets by rail and 963 by truck and approximately 2,500 truckloads, mostly to canning plants. The fall crop of beans was the best in recent years. Prices held good throughout the harvest and growers made excellent profits from their crop despite a shortage of harvest hands which in most instances prevented second and third pickings. The only killing frost of the season on Feb. 15 wiped out practically all of the early spring crop of young beans which was quickly replanted.

The quality of spring season beans was a surprise, however, for prices, except for continued quality, proved excellent until the peak movement was reached in mid-April when supplies exceeded demand and prices fell. Green variety affected most by the price drop.

Cabbage, totaling 1,870 cars and 126 truckloads, proved to be one of the principal bonanza crops of the season, many fields netting an average of $1,000 an acre. Planting on a smaller scale, escarole, blanching 210 cars, netted to be equally as profitable a crop as cabbage this year.

From an estimated 2,365 acres planted to celery in the Glades this season there was the output of 1,836 cars and 192 trucks. The most expensive of all Glades crops to grow, celery in turn netted the growers the biggest profit. Prices were high—averaging better than $3 a crate through the season and topping the $6 mark near the end of the harvest which extended well into the month of May. Wholesale prices were at the peak some fields of celery are reported to have returned a net profit of $2,000 an acre.

A cellophane price of $1.65 and $1.90 a bushel limited profits on the winter crop of potatoes in the Glades, consequently, the acreage planted for a spring crop of this vegetable was negligible.

The acreage planted to the spring tomato crop was smaller than usual, and this was almost completely wiped out by the Feb. 16 frost. Replantings of this crop were exceedingly light and what few tomatoes there were brought little return to the growers because of the absence of packing house facilities and buyers. It was probably the smallest tomato crop since the development of the Glades as a farming section.

Other vegetables shipped through the season in car and truck loads, which with returned good profits to the growers, included radishes, 32 cars, 33 truckloads; peas, 106 cars, 7 trucks; pepper, 27 cars; dandelions, 34; collard and other greens, 34; lettuce, 7.

Alvarez Speaks To Graduates Of The Canal Point School

Harry Fremd Awarded
For Perfect Attendance

Graduation exercises for the members of the Canal Point School's Eighth Grade were held Friday afternoon at 3 p. m. in the school auditorium.

The Rev. Frank R. Alvarez, vicar of the Church of the Holy Nativity, delivered the graduation address, which was well pointed, very appropriate and timely. In his address he pictured to the boys and girls and parents, in a most striking manner, the conditions in which they would find themselves if they were German and living under the conditions now existing under the Hitler regime.

In his address he pointed out that instead of the boys being dressed in uniforms and the girls ready to enter a life of slavery they were getting ready to commence their own higher course in education, with the liberty of choosing the courses they desired to follow rather than a strict form of regimentation; that they would have to do if they were in Germany.

Principal J. B. Cox presented special tributes to Harry Fremd and Bill Khan, the two outstanding and best all round pupils in the graduating class. Harry Fremd received a special certificate for perfect attendance for the school year. All but one of the graduates received Safety Patrol Certificates.

During the exercises the class sang "The Bombardier Song" and "Semper Paratus," accompanied at the piano by Robert O. Lampi. Mr. Lampi rendered the processional, "Pomp and Circumstance" and the Recessional, "Pomp and Circumstance."

The auditorium stage was beautifully decorated with palms, Easter lilies, and Red American flags, carrying out the school color scheme, red and white. The committee on decoration was composed of Mrs. W. H. Egan, Mrs. H. L. Sears, and Mrs. J. H. Miller. Miss Sue Maxwell, teacher, sponsored the activities of the class.

Certificates were presented by Superintendent J. B. Cox to Bill Egan, Gene Williams, Barbara McCrath, Ann O'Connell, Martha Schreier, Betty Ann Segars, and Mrs. Smith, James Latham, and Harry Fremd.

Mr. Cox expressed appreciation for the fine effort made by the boys and girls in their Bond and Stamp purchases during the year. He reported the total of $653.50 of bonds and stamps to the Prince Theatre for assistance in providing the school with the purchase of athletic equipment, library supplies etc. from the matinee receipts; and to the Canal Point Teachers' Association under the presidency of Mrs. W. P. Jernigan for the fine cooperation and library assistance during the past year. Through the efforts of the past year the school will be able to purchase library books for next school year, again.

Three Scotchmen were in the habit of arriving at a certain church some five minutes after the collection was taken. One Sunday morning something slipped some where, and the three Scotchmen marched in and walked down the aisle to the front pew and took their places, as usual. However, the collection had not been received, and the minister announced that the collection would now be taken. For a moment the three Scotchmen were at wit's end but finally one of them faintly and the other two carried him out! — Winter Haven Herald.

LITTER-BUGS

There's a new kind of bug loose in St. Petersburg. We call it the "litter-bug."

A "litter-bug" is an unco-operative citizen who is too lazy to deposit paper wrappers, cigarette butts or small bits of trash in their proper receptacles.

He prefers to litter the streets and parks of our city, which has been widely recognized for its cleanliness and neatness.

We think the "litter-bug" could stand to be re-educated.

In fact, we are asking you co-operation. It shouldn't take our civic-minded residents long to set an example which will stamp the "litter-bug" out of existence. — St. Petersburg Times.

CARGO PLANES

Post-war preview of the cargo that planes can handle was given in the mass flight of Curtiss-Wright Commando transports to India.

These big planes, which covered the 15,000-mile trip in 4½ days, are the most probable peacetime cargo carrier of the air.

Nothing the public yet has heard about. Fully loaded they weigh about 25 tons; they can carry five tons of cargo.

Curtiss-Wright estimates this plane can make money hauling a big shipment (500 pounds) from New York to Chicago at 12.7 cents a ton mile. That's just above the present 11.5 cent figure for rail express.

It's less than a sixth the 77.2-rate for today's air express.

Two engines of 2,000-h.p. each pull the Commando through the air. Pilots say they like to fly it. — Wall Street Journal.

HOME ECONOMICS

A Youngstown (O.) reporter has been fussing about the butter situation and finally decided to make some himself. He got a half pint of cream and went to work, shaking it seven and a half minutes in the jar. This was only the beginning. He gashed up the little ball of butter, "washed" it in ice water, salted it and looked upon it with love. It was pale. So he added some food coloring.

He also got some on his white shirt, ruining the shirt. Flipping his time, wear and tear on the shirt and other things, he had an eighth of a pound of butter which figures out at about $16.50 a pound. So he went out and bought a pound of oleo. — Editor & Publisher.

RIGHT PORTION

The night the marines landed in the Solomons, a marine sergeant in a San Francisco cafe was praising his corps to the skies. An army captain finally interrupted. "Don't forget," he said, "that when a marine goes into battle there are 10 soldiers on one side of him and 10 sailors on the other."

The marine raised himself to his full six feet one and came to attention.

"Sir," he reported, "that's the proper proportion." — Yank.

UNDERSTANDING HUSBAND

The baroness lay in the agony of death. Having called her husband to her side said: "Arrand, what I am about to say will surprise you, but I cannot die without this confession. I have deceived you with the truth."

The baron looked down on her coldly. "My dear," he said, "Why do you suppose I gave you the poison?" — Winter Haven Herald.

Bathing the Aleutian Way

Taking a bath, even in cold water, isn't very pleasant sometimes, but an army officer writing to a friend in Omaha, gives this description of the convenience of taking a bath in the Aleutian Islands.

"The first thing you have to do is to wait until the mess is over at night, so that you have a chance to steal two pairs from the kitchen when you think no one is looking. It's just like that you breathe on until it gets unstuff enough to pour. You can't light a fire, because if you do, you would probably find yourself on the singing end of a Jap bomb."

"Well, you take the two pairs of ice water, throw a little dirt in them, to act as a counter-irritant, strip, and stand with one foot in each pail. Then you give yourself a good soaping (soap that's bear fat mixed with bacon drippings), until you are either fully lathered, or frozen, whichever comes first. Then you rinse yourself gently, by brushing away the crust of ice that has by this time formed on the top of the water, dipping it out neatly with the cup from your gorgeous pail (from the cold body, being careful to cover the entire surface, so that all of you is frozen evenly).

"The glory of it all is that you don't have to go to the trouble of drying yourself when you have finished. The reason is that your arms are now frozen solid and rigor mortis is setting in. Of course, that really needn't concern you, because there will be a lot of men in the club, who are always willing to carry you up to your mess, damp, dirty tent, and beat you back to life with the blunt side of their bayonets. I upon it with love. It was pale. So he added some food coloring.

He also got some on his white shirt, ruining the shirt. Flipping his time, wear and tear on the shirt and other things, he had an eighth of a pound of butter which figures

CINEMATIC CHATTER.....

—BY MALCOLM MILLAR—
What The Movies Have To Offer During The Coming Week

I feel certain you are going to like this new change of program arrangement at your Prince Theatre because it will shut off most of the double features, which will mean a more careful choice of the single features, with particular attention paid to the selection of short subjects to round out the show. At least the first change, which starts this week end, looks mighty good in this column.

On the Owl show Saturday, and this will be your only opportunity to see the picture, come "Walt Disney's full length cartoon 'Bambi.' This picture has received more favorable comment from the leading magazine and newspaper through this USA than anything dollars, that amount would replace revenue lost from racing and gasoline, and no other funds would be needed. Finance and Taxation committees toyed with numerous money-raising ideas but held all such bills in committee until the cigarette tax was assured. Now others are on the calendar, and if passed will mean more taxes and additional millions for the taxpayers. Among them are such proposals as a tax on beer, a tax on theatres and amusement parks, increased tax on insurance, a tax on payrolls and what have you.

When the timid tax-payers arise to ask "Why?" — law-makers and politicians start howling about the old folks, the crippled children, the school teachers, the widows and orphans. But the richer classes, the money don't care for such noble purpose, or at least not until just about everybody and everything else has been "taken care of." As the Miami Herald puts it, "We gotta take care of us before we take care of you."

Don't get the silly idea that I am viewing the situation with any special degree of concern. I am not. Nor am I attempting to criticize or find fault with this particular legislature. Again, I'm not. To tell the truth, as legislatures go, I consider this a very good one. If they have failed to do what the people want done, it is not their fault. Only a few of these men owe anything to the taxpayer. Such an individual as a "taxpayer" to most of them, is just a name, a bugaboo somebody invented to scare politicians and office-holders. They really don't know him; they never see or hear from him; and until they do they are not apt to be any different than they have been.

On the other hand, they owe plenty to the tax-payers and office-holders. They know that commissioners, sheriffs, constables, clerks and all the others we generally term "the Court House or City Hall crowd" are the boys to tie to if you want to be re-elected or hope advancement in the political arena. They are the boys that really get out and work for a guy. They don't just vote for a fellow, they work like beavers. Lawmakers, after all, are not much different from you or me. Most of them fit naturally in the category of "Regular Fellows." They are simply "John or Bill or Henry," sent to Tallahassee to play around for 60 days with a governmental backlash that has been created, aided and abetted by other Johns, Bills and Henrys, and under the circumstances it is really remarkable that they do as well as they do.

For the Tuesday - Wednesday showing John Loder and Ruth Ford do a thriller entitled "The Devil's Man." Now, contrary to the belief of the reader, that this is going to be a story about apes, this is the story of Nazi spies, and the Gorrilla man earns this title due to his cleverness in eluding capture by the enemy.

"Jimmy Rogers and Noah Berry.

For the Thursday-Friday showing "Calaboose." This is a show that was produced strictly as a laugh show and it will have you holding your sides before film is written on the screen at the end of the story.

For the Thursday-Friday showing Ralph Bellamy, assisted by Evelyn Ankers, comes with an interesting show carrying the title "The Great Impersonation." This is a mystery show that gives Bellamy an opportunity to display his talent as one of the best character men in films.

On the same program the United States Government offers a picture that is their own production and released through the Office of War Information. This one is "At The Front," and it is a picture that every American interested in the outcome of this present conflict should see.

All of which brings us down to Saturday, when my only day stand on the week in this present action, and the day the members of the Six Shooters Club reveal in their Western lore. For this particular day they are offering Tom Tyler and Bob Steele, two axes when it comes to slum-bug Western action, who turned the story "Code of the Outlaws." I am sure you'll get a great wallop, out of this one. By the by, if there happens to be anything you want to know about the passages, why not drop me a line to my box Drawer L, Pahokee, and I'll be glad to write you whatever information I may have at hand. Well—say you at the movies—M.

When Bell Airacobas, deadly pursuit planes, are given the works on test flights their 1150 horsepower Allison engines are kept safely lubricated with Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oil—the same quality Sinclair Pennsylvania sold by your nearby Sinclair Dealer.

Now that your car must last longer, keep it safely lubricated with the same quality oil that protects the Airacoba's engine at 395 m.p.h. Have your Sinclair Dealer drain and refill your crankcase with Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oil every 1,000 miles. It lasts so long it saves money as well as your engine.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Good morning, Doc. Your good wife tells me you're working night and day now that so many of the younger doctors are in the army."

people realize that a large part of the war-alcohol required to make the medical supplies that are being used right this minute to alleviate pain, combat infection and save human lives, is produced by the beverage distilling industry. This entire industry stopped making whiskey months ago and has been working night and day producing nothing but war-alcohol.

Nobody knows better than I, Judge, what an important contribution to our war effort that really is."

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

by Russell Kay

Unless an upset occurs in the final days of the 1943 legislative session we can chalk it up as one of the most successful tax-payers' assemblies ever held. Office-holders, with few exceptions, have found the lawmakers in a kind and generous mood.

True, one or two feeble attempts to economize have been made, but advocates have received little encouragement in their efforts. Appropriation committees worked diligently and recommended more cuts, only to be crushed under an avalanche of bureaucratic and official pressure that not only restored such trimmings but added sums above and beyond original budget figures.

While tax-payers are too burdened and too busy to leave their committee hearings, office holders were on the job every minute from early 'til late.

Fee officers, including tax assessors, tax collectors, clerks of circuit court county commissioners, judges and numerous municipal office holders, have been as busy as bees in the hotel lobbies, at the Capitol, in committee rooms and everywhere else in an effort to put over pet bills at the taxpayer's expense. They have had little to worry about for a large majority in both houses have been most sympathetic and the attitude so far has been to "take care of the boys in the court house and city hall."

Prior to the session there was considerable talk of "Economy." We were to have a 30-day session, appropriations would be cut to the bone, no new taxes would be levied, over-lapping boards, bureaus and commissions were to be abolished or consolidated. In short, it was to be a Tax-payers' Legislature.

County Commissioners have been given just about everything they asked for. Judges' salaries have been raised; assessors and clerks have had their demands smiled upon. As the Tampa Daily Times puts it, "it has been just one big field day for office holders."

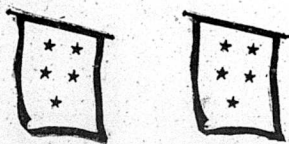

In that message, the Governor told lawmakers that if they would pass his cigarette tax, which was estimated would raise approximately three and a half million

SITTING IN WITH THE LAWMAKERS

(By Russell Kay)

"The Lady from Pinellas" is ambitious and admits quite frankly that she is toying with the idea of going after the illustrious title of "The Lady from Florida."—If the effort to create a new congressional district fails and the Honorable Lex Green relinquishes his House seat to run for Governor, the lady plans to toss her sombrero in the ring as a candidate for Congresswoman-at-large. Other names mentioned as possible candidates are Senator, Ernest Graham of Miami, and Mark Wilcox. From west Florida comes talk of opposition for the Honorable Bob Sikes, who, rumor has it, will be opposed the next go-round by Representative Dave Thomas of Escambia and Parkhill Mays of Monticello. Others to have congressional ambitions are Senator Franklin of Ft. Myers and Representative Buck Hancock of Madison. It is possible, of course, that none of these aspirants will be at the post when the race starts, but they are putting out feelers and counting their pennies and all of them will bear watching.

If a guy were to jump up in the House and scream "Fix it or 'Smallpox' he couldn't cause any more excitement than does the chap who mentions "State Welfare Board." It is like waving a red flag at a bull. During the past week every bill that even sounded like it might be remotely connected with the welfare set-up got in the ash can. Even if a bill was good the boys didn't like it, and they even went so far as to try and kill one previously passed and signed by the Governor. The Welfare Board went haywire this session by presenting a raft of bills designed to give them more power and control of more money. Things went all right for a time, but when the boys woke up to the fact that about every other bill on the calendar had to do with "welfare," they began holding their nose and pressing red buttons.

Sectionalism, which has been more or less dormant this session, broke out in a big way last week-end when a bill to establish a University of South Florida at Miami, at a cost of two million dollars, reached the floor of the House. Amendments piled 'up on the clerk's desk so fast he couldn't keep track of them. They called for everything from striking the existing clause to striking the word "Miami" and inserting "Jacksonville" or "Tampa." Just about everybody had something to say and before the fireworks were over some of the boys got real personal. The melee occurred during the Saturday morning session when only the consideration of supposed uncontroversial bills was expected, as many of the members were absent. Representative Dowda, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, brought the question up with the view of getting House reaction to the question of appropriating the two million. He sure got it, but after it was over he said little more than he had in the beginning. There was no particular occasion for the ruckus for the bill simply provided for the establishment of a school of medicine and dentistry at Miami at some future date, and called for a "when and if" appropriation. All agreed that such a project could not be undertaken until after the war, but from the debate one gathered the impression that if the bill passed work would start the next morning.

A bill introduced in the Senate by the Spands Committee, aimed at stopping the practice of hiring numerous "special attorneys" passed by a vote of 31 to 1 and was sent to the House. It provides that no division of government would be allowed to employ more than one special attorney without express approval of the Budget Commission. It further provides that the Attorney General shall be the legal advisor of state officers, departments, boards and commissions. Speaking in support of the measure, Senator Rose said it would correct a situation "that has very nearly created a scandal in this State."

Although it failed to provide the revenue, the House last week voted to appropriate $3,700,000 for school teachers and aid to counties. Representative Collins of Sarasota sponsored a bill to raise each teacher unit from $800 to $950 annually. Superintendent of Education Colin English estimated the increase would require an additional $2,400,000. Representative Beasley of Walton found no opposition to a bill to take $1,341,000 of inheritance tax money out of the general fund and distribute it equally among the 67 counties in replacement of lost revenue that formerly came from racing. He explained that it would give each county about $20,000.

Those who a week ago were predicting that the legislature would be ready to fold by last week-end now admit that it will carry on to the last day and very likely the last hour permitted by law. Some say they would not be surprised to see the clock turned back. Several controversial bills must yet be considered and when debate starts it usually goes on and on. Three time-loser the past week were: the bill to determine whether the Attorney General or the Cabinet should be responsible for publication of State law books; the Welfare Board child adoption bill; the bill to establish a University at Miami. At the moment the House and Senate are hopefully deadlocked over their respective Appropriation bills and, unless something is worked out by the joint Conference committee over the week-end, promise to remain that way.
